ASK ASSESSOR TO BE GUIDED BY FIGURES IN 1913-14 DIGESTS

Anticipating that the tax assessor for Volusia county might, in making assessments of Daytona property for state and county taxation this year, be guided by the valuations appearing on the city tax digest for 1915, numerous citizens have signed and are preparing to present the following petition to County Assessor S. B. Wilson: "The undersigned taxpayers of the city of Daytona, Volusia county, Florida, believing that the recent assessment of real estate in said city is grossly excessive and in many instances unequal, respectfully request you, as the county assessor, to disregard said city assessment in making up your assessment for state and county taxation, and take for your guidance the same valuations as used in 1913 and 1914.

"We know that there has been no increase in values here during the past year to warrant the excessive valuation made by our city assessor, and we are assured that the high valuation was the result of a demand made by the finance committee of the city council upon the assessor so that a larger fund might be realized for city expenses."

Other persons desiring to sign the petition may do so by seeing L. G. Lyman, at his store on Orange avenue.

In the special school tax districts of DeLand, Enterprise, Emporia, Pierson, Orange City, and Osteen, elections will be held on the 4th day of June for the purpose of choosing three trustees for each district, and to decide upon the number of mills to be levied and collected annually for the ensuing two years.

The people of New Smyrna school district are authorized to pass upon the 15th day of June, the proposition to issue $42,000 worth of bonds for school purposes, chief of which is the erection of a new building in the town of New Smyrna.

School tax district 41, which includes Seabreeze, will, on the 15th day of June, decide whether or not school bonds in the sum of $50,000 shall be issued. It is proposed to use the sum named in the erection of buildings and the general improvement of the school plant.

That the various groups of trustees now incumbent recommend teachers for the next school term, if possible, before June 15th, and not leave the matter open for the incoming trustees was requested by the school board.

The board will meet again Monday, April 10th, to open bids for the purchase of Lake Helen bonds and proposals for the erection of a school building at that place.

McLANE'S CAR CARRIED AWAY BY STEAMBOAT

Roscoe McLane and family are again occupying their home in Bungalow Park, having taken possession last Friday. Mr. McLane and family spent the winter on their houseboat which has been moored at the city dock. And this opens up a little incident that occurred recently in this connection. Mr. McLane had been in the habit of leaving his car at times on the street at the end of the city dock while he was at home on his boat. One evening, however, he ran his automobile out on the dock and left it in front of the warehouse of the Canal Packet line, joining his family on the boat for the night. In the morning his car had disappeared. It was finally concluded that one of the steamers which had arrived and departed in the early morning hours had carried away the machine and this proved the solution. Mr. McLane intercepted the boat at the Dressner landing north of Ormond and recovered his car, which the handlers on the boat had supposed was awaiting shipment to Jacksonville.

Ball Bearing: Long Wearing

is invariably followed by the discovery that the bills for ribbons are much less than before. A large corporation recently found that its ribbon expense was cut in two. This is not an accident. It is the result of the mechanical construction that makes the L. C. Smith & Bros. cheapest to maintain.

The ball bearings give light touch and eliminate pounding impact. The ribbon is actuated by the carriage, not the typebar. The ribbon mechanism is automatic, so that the ribbon reverses at the instant the end is reached and without added strain.

Low ribbon cost, low cost of maintenance and the highest efficiency—these are guaranteed to L. C. Smith & Bros. users.

WAR BECOMES HABIT

People Quickly Adapt Themselves to New Life.

Take It Carelessly Like Life on Volcano—Boys All Expect to Fight and Are Not Uneasy Over Prospect.

By GABRIEL DELAGARDE.
(Correspondent Chicago Daily News.)
Amiens, France.—In the last few days I have made inquiries among many persons to find out the state of mind of the civil population as regards the war generally. I have talked with tradespeople, manufacturers, retired merchants, ordinary laborers, other employees—as many as possible of each. It is easy to enter upon a conversation; at the present time it is not necessary to rack one's brains to find a subject, and the subject is inexhaustible. People have grown wise. The fantastical reports which at the beginning of the war were invariably believed fall now on skeptical ears.

Moreover, things are now in order. The other day, at a prominent hairdresser's shop in town, a man announced to those who would listen that the Germans had just entered Albert. An officer, who was being shaved, interfered, had the man arrested, and for his imprudence he passed eight days in prison.

Who would imagine, while walking through the streets of Amiens, that the Germans were 30 kilometers (about twenty miles) from here, not more? The soldiers from the trenches do not come here, or if they do the officers and men are obliged to come clean and in good style. Automobiles only have the right to be dirty. The population, it appears, must not see the war in an unfavorable light.

So the people are gradually growing accustomed to this abnormal state of affairs, just as the inhabitants of a town near a smoking volcano go about their business without giving it a thought. As a friend of mine, a literary man of these parts, said to me: "War? It's a matter of habit; heart, soul, mind, all become daily hardened to it. We have adapted ourselves to our new life."

And the remark is just. It applies to the people, especially to the men who have remained here. All the young men are alike; that is, the great majority. They realize that, if the war lasts, their turn will come to go to the front, and it causes them no uneasiness.

There is the mental anguish which affects all without distinction, with terrible equality, from the minister to whom we are indebted for the three years' service law and who has just lost his son, to the poor little woman who chafes to make a living, whose husband is a prisoner in Germany.

This it is which makes war odious, which creates the fiercest hatreds both in the hearts of the soldiers and the civil population. One day I returned from Albert with a poor woman, who has no one at the front, but who has witnessed the ruin of a town by a bombardment. She stretched out her thin arms with the suppleness of a cat as she said:

"Let the women have a hand. Deliver to me four 'boches' only, and I will undertake to put out the eyes of those highwaymen."

The refugees suffer and have suffered materially. They are virtually the only ones. One may say that, far from increasing misery, the war has diminished it. Such a wave of official and private charity has swept over the country! Nearly all of the poorer classes receive from the state either an indemnity for their enforced idleness or relief because of the war.

Am I to pity the manager of a large factory who told me he had lived on an income of 500,000 francs before the war, and now doesn't spend 10 francs a day? No, because he himself does not complain and accepts it in the proper spirit, even though, instead of having his automobile waiting for him at the station, he is obliged to walk, with an alpine sack on his back in place of a valise. He says that he has never felt better. Like others, he soon adapted himself to this new state of affairs.

BLAMES HIS RUIN ON BOOKS

London Hermit's Passion Caused Him to Abandon a Prosperous Business.

London.—"Books have been my ruin," was one of the best things said by the late Charles Augustus Ward, who in his latter days was a curious old hermit of Walthamstow in Essex. His passion for books had led him to dispose of the prosperous wine business at Mayfair he inherited from his father.

One of his hobbies was cook books; at eighty-seven he was compiling one for his own use from ancient sources when death overtook him. He had just inherited a small fortune from his sister. His collection of 3,000 volumes has gone to the London library.

He was often seen around London in a Holland smock, or a blue frock coat with brass buttons, and a Panama hat with yellow ribbon.

NEW LOCAL SHOW TO BE A HUMMER

C. GARVIN GILMAIN IS ARRANGING A NEW PROGRAM WITH A STRONG CAST OF CHARACTERS FOR BENEFIT OF CHARITIES.

C. Garvin Gilmain is arranging a new program with about the same cast in the principal characters as before. Both comedies will be new this time and singing specialties, with some new people with strong voices for the chorus. The opening number will be a one-act comedieta, "In Search of a Wife," with eight speaking parts. The players are Billy Conrad, leading juvenile; Professor Marks, character old man; Miss Alyce Green, leading lady; Miss Mary Stewart, a newcomer; Margaret Edwards, the dancing girl; Julia Michaels, Miss Nina Phillips, Miss Baron, the teacher, (another newcomer), and Mr. Gilmain, which is about the same cast which made the Terpechorean Novelty a success before. This will be followed by another new comedy, "The College Widow," in two acts, with twenty speaking characters.

Those taking part are all of those mentioned in the first play with the addition of Mrs. Jean Neville, in speaking part and songs as well; Miss Leota Coburn, also in a speaking part with the latest songs, supported by some of her "minstrel maids"; W. B. Shaw, in the leading juvenile part and three new solos.

Others with speaking parts are: Messrs. W. E. and Owen Sullivan, C. D. Bradshaw, Lew Smith, Harry Erickson, Maurice Niver, William Roxby, another newcomer. Besides having speaking characters these gentlemen will lend their good voices in the chorus. Miss Hazel Ferris and Mr. Shaw will sing that pleasing duet, "You're Just the Girl," which was omitted from the last show, with a new drill by the chorus. Miss Lucile Mitchell and Mr. Gilmain will appear in a new sketch, written by Thomas Bailey Aldrich. This will be introduced between the acts, besides some of the latest musical hits now playing on Broadway. A new dance will be a feature of this show by William Conrad and Alyce Green.

Local charities will benefit by this entertainment. Mr. Coburn, the famous jolly minstrel man, will be business manager, which is a guarantee of success.

The date set for the entertainment is Friday, May 14th, and new features introduced in the show will be noted from day to day in the local columns of the Daily News.

NET AND LANE
By MAUDE BREWSTER.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Marie was a street singer, but Marie had dreams. While she sang for pennies and dimes that were tossed to her from the windows of apartment houses she fancied herself a grand opera singer bowing gracefully before a great audience of music lovers. As she glanced from time to time at Lecco, the young Greek who was her accompanist, and who turned the hand organ mechanically, Marie fancied him to be a great and wonderful conductor waving his baton and carrying her rhythmically through her operatic arias.

The afternoon upon which Marie and Lecco stopped before the studio apartments on West Fifty-seventh street was fraught with much excitement and interest for both the Greek and the little singer from Italy.

John Orth, artist and philanthropist, was giving a tea in his sumptuous studio when Marie's voice arose from the streets and startled his guests with its sympathetic timbre and clarity of tone.

"What do you say to asking them up here for a song?" he asked.

"Great! Here's a chance for Orth to take another protege under his wide wing," Billy Craven made answer.

The idea was no sooner suggested than carried out, and a moment later Marie and Lecco, together with the old hand organ, were up in John Orth's studio and facing a company of Bohemians who eagerly pressed forward and encircled them.

Marie had always fancied herself singing before a critical audience. It was no doubt that long, half-conscious training in the world of dreams that carried her successfully through the ordeal.

Before leaving, Marie had promised John Orth to return the following day to receive instructions preparatory to beginning a course of study in vocal and instrumental music. Also they had been taken into the dining-room, where Orth's servants offered them tea and cakes such as would make the mouths of less hungry people water.

When they had finally left the studio John Orth sat in deep study. His guests, now that the tense moments were slipping into the past, began to chide him.

"I am hard hit," he admitted slowly. "If that girl takes advantage of her studies and makes a name for herself I—"

"You'll marry the girl," laughed Jimmy Craven.

"Yes, I think I will," John Orth said.

Days slipped into weeks and Marie progressed slowly, but with great intelligence. She found study tedious and the demands put upon her time wearisome. Her brain, unaccustomed to training, rebelled at the long hours of application to technique, sight reading and endless scales, both vocal and instrumental. She felt much like a bird that had been caged, and Marie longed passionately for her freedom. Her fancies had never embodied this constant toil. The fact was less attractive to her than her wonderful dreams and castles in the air.

Lecco, too, seemed unconsciously to add to her troubles. That he was occupying himself with business was evident in the enlarged store and increased trade. Marie wondered at the loneliness and sudden strangeness of the world, and it was to Lecco she went with her woes.

"Meestair Orth—he would marry me," she said finally. "He say he loves me."

Lecco's face went white. "I love you, too, Marie," he cried swiftly, and would have stopped the rush of words to his lips had not Marie crept happily into his arms.

"You nevair say so to me; nevair told me you love me," she whispered in the wonderful tones that would have made her famous had she loved happiness less. "I have loved you forever, Lecco."

A flame leaped into Lecco's black eyes and he bent his head over the lips that were to him red poppies flung on an oval of alabaster.

Liberty.

A small boy went up to a soda water clerk and said:

"Give me a ptomaine cocktail."

"What's that?"

"I want a ptomaine cocktail."

"That's a new one on me. Explain what it is."

"Well, I've just escaped from my home and I can do what I like. Now, every time I have seen anything I particularly liked, my mother would say, 'No, you can't have that. It's got ptomaine in it.' And so I want a ptomaine cocktail, with all the ptomaines you can squeeze in. I'm out for the time of my life."—Life.

Had to Put Up With It.

Mistress—"Bridget, did I see Officer Flynn eating cold chicken in the kitchen last night?" Bridget—"You did, mum! And it's not me will heat up a chicken at half-past t'n for any cop."—Puck.

Worried.

"That dog of Black's will be the death of me, barking at me every time I pass."

"But barking dogs don't bite."

"I know, but I'd rather be bitten at once than kept in suspense."

WHILE the transient population of Daytona and the peninsula cities has dwindled to a few score souls, there are still several thousand permanent residents here. And they have to buy food and clothing and shoes and summer comforts and amusements.

The DAILY NEWS goes into the homes of several hundred families of these people every day except Sunday. And, Mr. Merchant, many of those people expect you to talk to them, through the DAILY NEWS, about the things you want them to buy--and things they WANT to buy.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

THE ALLIES VIEW. By Albert W. Bryce.

Without Berlin's authorization to feel the way, Dr. Dernburg would hardly speak so confidently upon terms of peace. He seems to say that Germany will hold Antwerp unless she can establish a system of freedom of the sea and of the ocean narrows which is new to international law, and which has never yet been defined in detail.

There is more than Belgium to consider in such a bargain and alternative. Without crushing also Holland, Germany could not use Antwerp as a "strongly fortified port" for naval uses, since its channel to the sea, the Lower Scheldt, is Dutch.

And both proposed bargain and proposed alternative rest upon the fortunes of war. With the spring campaign not yet fully open on either front—with no certainty, even, whether more nations are to take part in the war on either side—such proposals, however interesting as indicating the German trend of thought, are for practical purposes premature.

THE GERMAN VIEW. By Hugo von Kleist.

"In New York an old woman in deep mourning is always to be seen whenever important news of a German victory or defeat is posted up. She weeps copiously. 'Ach, Wilhelm, der goot emperor. Ach mein vaterland!' When the crowd is sufficiently interested, she sobs out that the Germans are fighting for freedom; that perfidious England caused the war to ruin German trade; that the Germans were forced to fight their way through the treacherous Belgians to get at the degenerate French. And strangely enough, there is always some man ready on the spot to side with the old woman. 'The old girl's got the right dope,' he remarks loudly. 'It's a shame how those big, hulking European powers have pitched into little Germany, just like a lot of cowardly bullies. I'd just like to see this country take a hand in helping Germany to whip the stuffing out of them, especially England. I ain't got any use for the Johns. You all know England's never been any friend of this country.' The German sympathizers in the crowd applaud these remarks and sometimes raise a cheer.

Educational Limitations.

A small boy asked his father the meaning of equinox, and received this answer: "What in the world do you go to school for? Don't you study mythology? An equinox is a mythical animal, half horse, half ox. The name is derived from the Latin 'equine,' horse and 'ox.' Dear me, they teach you absolutely nothing that is useful nowadays!"—Atchison Globe.

FLAGLER HOTEL SYS. LOSES OLD EMPLOYE

FAILING HEALTH CAUSES THE RETIREMENT OF J. A. M'GUIRE WHO IS SUCCEEDED BY H. E. BEMIS IN CHARGE OF HOTELS.

J. A. McGuire, who for the past 30 years has been identified with the Flagler System of hotels, has retired from active work and severed his connection with these famous hotels. Ever since the construction of the Ponce de Leon, Mr. McGuire has been in charge of these valuable properties, but on account of failing health he has found it necessary to retire entirely from active work and necessarily retire from his connection with the big hotels.

H. E. Bemis, who has been in charge of the Flagler hotel properties at Palm Beach, Miami, Long Key and Nassau, will also be in charge of the properties at St. Augustine and Ormond, which have heretofore been under Mr. McGuire's supervision. Mr. Bemis will make St. Augustine his headquarters and will be assisted by M. H. C. Brombacker, a graduate of Columbia university and chief engineer of the hotel system.

He has been prominently connected with the hotel system for many years and is widely known not only in St. Augustine, but all along the East Coast.

THIS IS THE CLEAN-UP WEEK IN DAYTONA

As all good citizens are aware, this is clean-up week in Daytona as in many other municipalities in the state. The movement here is under the auspices of the civic department of the Palmetto club and all property owners and residents in general have been requested to make a special effort to put their property in good order, especially by removing all trash and unsightly objects. With this object in view the civic department has made provision for the carting away of trash and refuse of all kinds from the private residences in the city and the wagons provided for this purpose will make the rounds of the residence portion of Daytona during Friday, and if necessary on Saturday also. All property owners should be prepared to take advantage of the visit of these wagons and have all rubbish and trash cleaned up about their premises and in readiness in barrels for removal when the wagons call.

This matter of clean-up week is being generally adopted throughout the country and is doing a good work. Jacksonville has just passed through a clean-up campaign which it is said has left the city in such fine condition that it should not be necessary to hold another campaign next year. It is a good habit to acquire and it is to be hoped that Daytona's citizens will get the habit.

One of the items considered by the commissioners at their meeting on Monday and Tuesday at DeLand, was a proposed bond issue of $100,000. The stated purpose of the issue was to be used in the purchase of a drainage project of 60,000 acres of land in Dupont. Thirty-two of the land belonging to the way and Land companies in the area which the project scheme desire to acquire. The Dupont project is being pushed through its vice-president, Burch, is among the landowners who are pushing the project. It looks like will be a success. One of the features of the scheme will be the dredging of a creek for a distance of about 10 miles, thus affording a deeper and more adequate channel through which flow water from the adjacent lands may be drained.
